Shannondale Springs. At the close of the spring season of last year at this delightful watering place, we gave to our readers a brief sketch of some of the pecuniary advantages arising therefrom, to the citizens of Jefferson county; especially to those of the neighboring towns and villages, and more particularly to the mountaineer, whose happy lot has located him in a region near to the healing and invigorating waters of Shannoudale Springs. Here the mountaineer finds ready sale for all the natural products of the mountain soil, for all his poultry and early vegetables. Here the farmer of the Valley finds immediate sale for the "fatted calf," his superior hams and mut-tons, his hay, corn, and oats, at liberal cash prices. Here our merchants may expect to extend their mercantile operations, and here

We can learn here from visiting senators and other intelligent gentlemen, the prospect of the final passage of the Nebraska bill; also the French spoliation bill, the new channel of commerce recently opened by Commodore Perry with the Japan government, the progress of the Russian war with Turkey, the probable influence which the combination of the allied powers of Europe may have upon our govern-ment and the breadstuffs of our country, and how far that influence will go towards securing to those nations oppressed by Russia, certain inalienable rights, which properly belong to all nations, and in fact to all the civilized world.

Nature has given to this beautiful watering place the most lovely mountain scenery we ever beheld. At the base of the hill upon which the Shannondale Hotel is erected, flows the bold Shenandoah, whose gentle murmur is tinctly heard, whilst the ancient elm, the study oak, and other forest trees are thickly studded along the meandering banks. Under the cooling shades of these majestic trees tales of love have been told and many engagements

All these advantages, together with the well known hospitality of the generous proprietor, Captain George W. Sappington, tend strongly to make it one of the most desirable and agreeable watering places in the whole range of mineral and medicinal fountains.

THE IRISH EXODUS .- Late Irish journals are largely occupied with details of the emigration movement. Thousands of the natives of the soil are gathering together their little worldly property, and preparing to depart either for the United States or Australia. The Athlone Sentinel says that "every day the railway station is crowded with persons proceeding to The Dundalk Democrat save the every boat that leaves the quays carries off numbers of persons from that and the adjoin ing counties on their way to the United States the passage-money in most cases being paid on the American side of the Atlantic." The Tuam Herald notices the departure of three hundred emigrants, all within a fortnight, and all des-tined for the United States. The Waterford News also chronicles the departure of two steamers, both of them crowded with adventurers for America. The Galway Packet says that emigration to the United States is on the increase, and that the dread of impressment is driving away thousands who would not dream of emigrating, but for fear of being compelled to serve in the British navy. The editor adds: ore the end of the year Ireland will be liter ally deserted, and the silence and desolation which now brood over Connemara will be visible in the more populous districts of the country. Sligo Chronicle says that the "continuance of the rage for leaving Ireland is one of the extraordinary features of the times, and is wholly inexplicable, when we consider the present prosperous state of the country, and the accounts continually received of the sad disappointments experienced by thousands who were happy and comfortable at home."

Baltimore American. A SOCIABLE BEAR .- The following curious circumstance, which is said to be true in every particular, is related in "Lloyd's Scandina vian Adventures." "Two women, with four children, were tending their cattle at a shealing far from home. It was the duty of one woman to tend the cattle in the forest, while the other occupied her-self with household mat ers, and in looking after the children. It so hapened, however, on the 23d of last September, that while one of the women, as usual, watched the cattle, the other absented herself for a short time on a visit to a neighbor, leaving the children alto-gether to themselves. She had not been long away before they perceived two large brown animals, which they took to be cows, on the outside of the fence bordering the patch of pasture ground contiguous to the hut. All children are curious, and indifferent to danger. Without consideration, therefore, they climed over fence, and made up to the creatures. animals became aware of the near approach of the children, the larger of the two compelled the smaller to lie down at the foot of a tall pine, and then crouched by its side as if to protect it from barm. Whereupon the least of the children—that of two years of age—without hesitation toddled directly up to the animals, and laid itself down likewise, with its head resting upon the belly of the larger one, humming at the same time some nursery song, as if reposing on its mother's lap! The other children remained the while the quiet spectators of the scene. When, however, the oldest had lain a little while, it come to the conon that it was not a cow, but a bear, as was the fact, the child was toying with, she became sorely affrighted. Meanwhile the infant, who could not remain long in the same posi-tion, presently rose from its hairy couch, gathblue berries growing hard by, and gave them to his bedfellow, the bear, who immediately ate them out of the babe's hand!

The child next plucked a sprig from a neighboring bush, and offered it to the beast, which bit it in two, allowing the child to retain one-

Spiritual Advice.-Our feelings towards the spiritualists" partake of pity for their weakness more than of contempt for their operations. They are deluded, and this is the summing up of the whole matter. The less peop'e have to do with the so-called "circles" the better for their peace and personal welfare. Leisure time can be appropriated to useful purposes. The heading of this article, however, ("spiritual advice.") is designed as applicable to what follows.

Some weeks ago, an elderly gentleman, we known in the community, took the liberty of assaulting a boy who had proved an annoyance to him; suddenly bringing his heavy boot-toe in contact with that part of the body which is generally selected for such attacks. The lad was so much injured by the kick, that physician had to be employed to attend to him; the elderly gentleman temporarily compromising the matter with his father by promising to pay "the doctor's bill." But when the boy recovered, the assailant failed to comply with his promise; and so the parent resorted to the law, for the purpose of recovering the amount of the professional fees, ten dollars.

The parties appeared before Justice Donn. to adjudicate the matter. The elderly gent'eman excused himself from the payment, but this did not satisfy the complainant. After a while, however the detendant, who everywhere proclaims himself to be a "writing medium," said he would be controlled entirely by "the spirits." Having been furnished with writing meterials, his hand moved, as if involuntarily on his part, over the paper, and the result of this operation was the black and white" advice, by the presumed mysterious agency, to pay the money, not because he was under a moral obligation to do so, but for the sake of peace, or words to that effect.

He then quietly, and without further ado, hand ed ten dollars to the justice, and departed, apparently without a regret, because of the pecuniary

A Meeting of Members of Congress who opposed the passage of the Nebraska and Kansas oill, was held on Tuesday evening, pursuant to previous notice. Where it was hele, or how nany persons were present, we did not learn But the Hon. Solomon Foot, of Vermont, and the Hon. Daniel Mace and the Hon. Reuben E. Fenton, were appointed secretaries. The committee appointed for the purpose reported an "Address to the People of the United States," which, havng been read, was unanimously adopted. The concluding paragraph is as follows:

"It is no time for exaggeration or for passion and we therefore speak calmly of the past and warn you in sober earnestness of the future. It would not become us, nor is it necessary to suggest the measures which ought to be adopted in come. As soon as it became evident to his this great emergency. With ourselves we are ready to do all that shall be in our power to restore the Missouri compromise and to execute such further measures as you in your wisdom shall command, and as may be necessary for the recovery of the ground lost to freedom, and to prevent the further aggressions of lavery."

Music .- There was a large attendance of per ons, as usual, vesterday evening on the Capitol grounds, to enjoy the music of the Marine Band, and to luxuriate at that delightful and popular reort. A fine opportunity is always there presented to exhibit fashion, beauty, and babies in their nurses' arms or in carriages; the latter being ar indulgence not to be enjoyed, in so great a degree, n either adolescence or adult age. We noticed several gay batchelors of our acquaintance look ng out for wives among the charming belles, truth that need only to be told to warn the unsuspecting fair ones of their danger !

Cholera Morbus.-Several cases of severe cholera morbus have recently come to our knowfully partaken of crude and new fruits. An intance of five doctors having been called in to a patient, has been related to us; and we conceive hat it is our duty to refer to this subject, to warn our fellow-inhabitants of the danger of a free in dulgence in such edibles, together with unnecessary exposure to the burning sun. Prudence dictates the utmost caution, and the avoidance of the causes which produce such results.

Blackberries.-This delightful fruit is now being sold in our markets at twelve-and-a-half cents a quart. Several years ago they could be purchashed for one cent, in any quantity. We ecollect that the Hon. Zadock Prattonce informed us that he, a poor and friendless boy, commenced life as a blackberry-picker. By dint of honesty, perseverance, and enterprise, he has attained to wealth and credible political distinction; having served several terms in the United States House of Representatives. The trade pays infinitely better now, however, than it did in his early days.

Sanitary. - The city authorities have been aroused, at least partially, into action, and comnenced the work of purifying the public streets, by means of quicklime; but, as an accompaniment, we should like to see the garbage carts in motion everywhere. Many of the private alleys invite the cholers, a fact of which not a few citizens are aware; and therefore the nuisance should be forthwith abated.

Market Theft.-Recently, a lady in marke had her pocket picked of a beautiful bead purse, containing nine dollars. She did not discover the loss until she was on the eve of paying for some marketing. The rogue doubtless had seen her with the treasure in her hand, and watched a favorable opportunity to relieve her of it. Marketers should be a little more particular.

Judge Crawford, yesterday morning, before any business was transacted, adjourned the criminal court until Monday. The cause for this was the illness of his married daughter, who but recently returned to the city to die; her health being considered irrecoverable.

Slaves Returning from California.-The steamship Pampero, on her last trip from San Juan, brought up twelve or fifteen slaves, who, together with their master, were on their return from Cahifornia to Georgia. These slaves were taken out to California by their master in the taken out to California by their master in the spring of 1850, and as soon as practicable after their arrival in San Francisco, started for the gold mines, where they have ever since labored faithfully, the proceeds of their labor rendering the owner wealthy. When they returned to San Francisco, the owner addressed them, and informed them that they were free, and offered to gig them out in fine style, and give each of them. formed them that they were free, and offered to rig them out in fine style, and give each of them a sufficient sum of money to enable him to start fair in the world for himself. Without a single exception they refused. They had all been look-ing forward with great glee to return to the "old plantation" and the "old folks at home," and so back they all came, and by this time, per-haps, they are astonishing the young darkeys, who have never left home, with the wondrous in-stances which befel them in the land of gold, and gratifying them with a sight of the monkeys, pargratifying them with a sight of the monkeys, paroquets, &c., which they picked up on the Isthmus of Nicaragua. The above facts are gathered from gentlemen who came through with the slaves and their owner, and who was perfectly cognizant of the matters stated.—N. O. Picayune.

HAWAIIAN ISLANDS, OAHU, Honolulu, March 22, 1854.

My last letter to you was written under date of February 27, since then the town has been in a state of excitement on the subject of an-nexation of these islands to the United States. Rumors have been current among the natives that the king and chiefs were to be massacred by the foreigners, that the islands were to be unexed to the United States, the natives were to be made slaves, and many other ridiculous statements set affoat by the foreigners opposed to annexation, for the purpose of prejudicing the chiefs and natives against the Americans and in a measure success has crowned their

Much pains have been taken by the few for eigners opposed to annexation to make the esty should consent to annexation the American government would receive the islands and make the natives slaves, and they have fully succeeded in convincing many; the fact of Hallileo, one of their chiefs, having been turned away from the table on board a steamboat, when travelling in the United States, on ac-count of his color, has been cited to prove to them that the Americans would not respect them, and they would be treated as negroes. the most intelligent do not believe these reports, but they are in doubt as to the treatment hey would receive from the Americans in the

A petition, signed by twenty-seven hundred natives, has been presented to the king, begging him not to consider annexation to the United States, giving, as the only reason, that they were fourful the American results. they were fearful the Americans would make slaves of them. A native newspaper has been started, called the "Ka Nu Hou," edited by Mr. J. H. Marsh; it is in favor of annexation. and is ably conducted; it meets well the false tatements made by the Englishmen concernng the Americans, and will have a beneficial ffect. The next number will contain a translation of a speech made in Congress by Mr. Vashburn, on the subject of annexing these slands to the United States, and as the speech nentioned the natives in very complimentary terms, and as he spoke adversely to annexing these island, only on the basis that it should be the unanimous wish of the people of the islands, it will undoubtedly operate well on the ninds of the people. A native meeting was held last evening for the purpose of discussing the subject of annexation; and speeches were made by Alexander Tiholiho, the heir apparent, G. P. Judd, and many natives. Dr. Judd spoke very strongly in favor of annexing. Alexander stated there had been much said abou revolutions, but that he was not at all alarmed. This nation had treaties with the United States, England and France, and certainly there was no fear of the independence of the nation being polested by either of those nations. It was hi wish the nation should remain independent as long as possible, and in his opinion it could maintain its independence for some time to mind that the nation must seek a protectorate, then he should hold up both hands for annexe tion to the great republic, but his object in speaking was to assure the natives that the slands should not be annexed without their consent, and to express the wish of the king that the natives should discuss the subject fully and make up their minds as to what was best before called upon to act. Most of the speeches were against annexation at present, but all were in favor of annexing in the event of the nation not being able to maintain its independence. The meeting adjourned to Tuesday evening next, after passing a resolution to hold a meeting weekly for the purpose of discussing

I have mentioned that there is opposition to annexation among the foreigners. I should ay that there are very few foreigners opposed to it, and only such as are influenced by the English or French consuls. Most of the Engligh, French, and Germans are in favor of annexation, and, in fact, the ex-consul of France, Jules Dudoit, has placed his name on the pe-tition for annexation. M. Perrin, the present consul for France, says and does all he can to oppose annexation. He is much dissatisfied pleased to see any change but annexation. He thinks that the United States, France, and England, should form a joint protectorate for the islands to be governed under, each governnent to be represented in the cabinet.

The 17th being the birth-day anniversary of the king, it was observed as a holiday; the troops were reviewed at Waikiki by Lieutenant General Prince Liboliho, and in the evening their majesties held a levee at the palace, which was well attended. The presentations by Mr. Allen, the minister of finance, were made until half-past 8 o'clock. At nine o'clock the party retired to the supper-room, where a bounteous repast was laid out, and at half-past dancing commenced, which was kept up until 1, when the visitors retired.

SHAWMUT. From the London Times, May 17. Death of Admiral Hyde Parker.

Intelligence was received at the Admiralty esterday of the death of Admiral Hyde Pa er, senior naval lord of the Admiralty. The ollowing account of the brilliant services of the deceased admiral is given in O'Byrne's Naval Biography: This officer entered the royal naval academy

February 5, 1796, and embarked in September, 1799, as a volunteer, on board the Cambrian, 40, Captain the Hon. Arthur Kaye Legge and George Henry Towry, employed at first in the channel, and then in cruising among the western islands. In November, 1801, he removed as mid-hipman to the Narcissus, 32, Captain Ross Donnelly; and while in that rigate, of which he was created and acting and confirmed lieutenant, October 6, 1803, and September 24, 1804, he saw much active serice. On July 11, in the latter year in particular, he assisted, with the boats of his own umber, under the orders of Lieutenant John Thompson, and was highly spoken of for his conduct at the capture and destruction of twelve settees, lying at La Vandour, in the bay of Hyeres, after a conflict, in which the Brit sh, encountered by a tremendous fire of grape shot and musketry, as well from the vessels themselves as from a battery and the houses of the town, sustained a loss of four men killed and twenty-three wounded.

In the following year Mr. Parker, who, in aly, 1803, had contributed to the capture of Aleyon of 16 guns and 96 men, accompanied the expedition to the Cape of Good Hope; on her passage thither the Narcissus, besides making prize of Le President privateer, of 12 guns and 70 men, retook the English merchant ship Horatio Nelson, mounting 22 guns, and drove on shore the Napoleon privateer of 32 guns and 250 men. Subsequently to the reduction of the cape, Mr. Parker, on the surrender there of the 46 gun frigate Voluntaire, was placed on board that ship, under the orders of Captain the Hon. Josceline Percy. In June, 1806, having been advanced to the rank of commander on the 22d of the preceding January, he went on half pay. His next appointment was in March, 1807, to the Prometheus sloop; from which vessel, for his services, dur ing the expedition to Copenhagen, he was pro-moted, October 13 following, to post rank. He afterwards obtained command, March 11, 1811, of the Monmouth, 64, bearing the flag in the Downs of Rear-Admiral Thomas Foley April 15, 1812, of the Tonedos, 38, attached to he force on the coast of North America, whence he returned in August, 1815; March 15. 1818, of the Iphigenia, 46, which ship was paid off June 12, 1821; May 1, 1820, of the St. Vincent, 120, bearing the flag of Sir Thomas Foley, at Portamouth; February 16, 1831, of the Asia, 84, on the Lisbon station; December 19 following, again of the Victory, employed as before, at Portsmouth, where he remained until February, 1833; and August 29, 1835, for upwards of four years and a half, of the Rodney, 92, on the Mediterranean sta-

While in the Tenedos, Captain Parker was engaged, in company with the Shannon, 38, Captain Phillip Bowes Vere Broke, in blockading, during the month of April, 1813, the port of Boston, in which lay the American frigates President and Congress; he afterwards, in April, 1814, united with the Junon, 38, Captain Clotworthy Upton, in chasing the Constitution frigate into Marblehead harbor, whither he was prevented from following him by a signal of recall from the Junon; and on January 15, 1815, he witnessed the surrender of the aboveamed President to the British frigate Endymion, Captain Henry Hope. In the Iphigenia, after having conveyed the Duke of Richmond to Quebec, he proceeded to the West Indies, where the fever in a few weeks carried off 84 of his officers and men. On September 5, 1831, Captain Parker was nominated an extra naval aide de-camp to King William IV. He attained flag-rank November 23, 1841; and from August , 1842, until the close of 1847, he held the appointment of admiral-superintendent at Ports-mouth. In 1845 he commanded an experinectal squadron. He was nominated a C. B April 18, 1839.

THE MISTAKE THAT MR. TWOMBLEY MADE. wombley had drank but six glasses of brandy and water, when, being a man of discretion, he returned home at the scasonable hour of I, a. m., and went soberly to bed. Mrs. Thomas wombley was too well accustomed to the comings and goings of said Thomas to be disturbed by the trifling noise he made on retiring, but when she discovered that he had his boots on, she requested him to remove them, or keep his feet out of bed.

"My dear," said Mr. Twombley, in an apologetic tone, "'skuse me! How I came to for get my boots, I can't conceive, for Pm just as ober as ever I was in my life.'

Mr. Twombley sat on the side of the bed, and made an effort to pull off his right boot. The attempt was successful, though it brought him o the door. On regaining his feet, Mr. Twombley thought he saw the door open. As he was sure he shut the door on coming in, he was astonished; and dark as it was in the room, he could'nt be mistaken, he felt certain. wombley staggered towards the door to shut when, to his still greater surprise, he saw a igure approaching from beyond. Twombley topped; the figure stopped. Twombley adanced again; the figure did the same. Twombey raised his right hand; the figure raised its eft. "Who's there?" roared Twombley, beinning to be frightened. The figure made no Twombley raised his boot in a menacng attitude; the figure defied him by shaking a similar object.

Cried Twombley, "I'll find out who you be, you sneak!" He hurled the boot full at the nysterious object, when crash! went the big oking-glass which Twombley had mistaken or the door .- N. O. Picayune.

HADLEY & PIELD'S AMERICAN Writing Floid.—It is generally understood, except among stationers and others, whose avocations have especially led to an appreciation of the value of a perfectly fluid ink, that the secret of the process of producing such a fluid has not until recently, been discovered in this country. To produce an ink which should be a perfect chemical combination has been a problem, the solution of which has long exercised in vain the skill of American manufacturers of this indis; ensable article. The only luks in market having any claim to the possession of this characteristic have, until the The only iuks in market having any claim to the possession of this characteristic have, until the introduction of that to which we now refer, been imported. Hadley & Field's ink is the result of practical and elaborate experiment, by one of our most accomplished and scientific chemists, and is claimed to be fully equal to any imported ink. Every test of its quality is freely invited, and the fullest testimony is given by those who have used it that it is in every respect equal to the English ink.
